COLLEGE VISITS INFORMATION

During the next 2-3 weeks we will be hosting many college reps at Fairview in the Post Grad Center. This is a great opportunity for students to come to hear presentations about specific college campuses and meet representatives from admission offices.

Attending college rep visits is a privilege that is granted by our faculty. If students want to come to a rep visit they must first ask their teachers for permission, and at the presentation they must sign an attendance sheet in order to be excused from class. In many cases, teachers will not be giving permission for students to miss class. If so, please remind your students that they can meet with college representatives at the college fairs that are being held during October in the evenings and on weekends (please see below).

Juniors and seniors are allowed to miss class for a rep visit if they have teacher permission and are strongly advised to attend only a reasonable number of these presentations. Freshman and sophomore students can only come if they have free class periods.

A complete list of college rep visits is available on the "Post Grad Center" section of the Fairview website and is updated twice a week. Lists are also posted on 15 bulletin boards in every level the school.

As mentioned, college representatives will also be attending college fairs in the area during the month of October:

Colorado In-State College Fair:

Univ. of Colo., Boulder, Coors Event Center, Tues., 10/13, 7-8:30 pm

Out-of-State College Fairs:

Monarch High School, Wednesday, 10/7, 6:30-8:30

Cherry Creek High School, Saturday, 10/10, 10:00-3:00

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK!

David Warren and Izze Funke

David was chosen because he is the number one Singles Tennis player, and helped bring a win in for Fairview during the FHS vs. CCHS. This was the third time that Cherry Creek had lost a match in 406 matches!

Izze Funke, a Varsity Pitcher, threw a very rare “no hitter.”

Parent Engagement Network presents:

Thriving During the Teenage Years

The Magic of Mentoring

By Dr. Jan Hittelman

Adolescence is a turbulent time and as parents our high school and middle school children constantly challenge us. While we know it's a time of experimentation, we want to keep our children safe from drugs, alcohol and other risk behaviors. Even though they may lack focus at times, we want our children to achieve in school. Perhaps most importantly we want our children to learn the skills necessary to become healthy, happy and successful adults.

One way that we can help protect our youth against risk behaviors, while at the same time helping them to develop positive self-esteem is through connecting them with an adult mentor. This can be through formal programs as well as informal mentoring. Informal mentoring involves adults that are already in your child's world; a neighbor, teacher, relative, parent's coworker, one of their friends parents, etc. It is a trusted adult who can be a source of support and guidance for your child at a time when they are more resistant to guidance from Mom and Dad. This is no surprise because their developmental task is to separate from parents and become more independent. A mentor can fill this critical void.

Formal mentoring involves signing your child up for a program that screens and trains mentors to work with youth. In many of the BVSD middle schools the Community Access Mentoring (CAM) program is available to students. In addition to providing 1:1 mentoring at school the mentors also help youth access quality after-school programs, which are also an important protective factor for youth as most adolescents get into trouble between 3-6pm Monday through Friday. You can learn more about the CAM program, including how to volunteer to become a mentor by visiting:

www.bvsd.org/mentor.

As an alternative to traditional counseling, many psychotherapists are now offering mentoring as an alternative; instead of sitting in an office and talking for an hour a week, they get together and do activities together. This is often more comfortable for adolescents and they may open up more about themselves and their challenges.

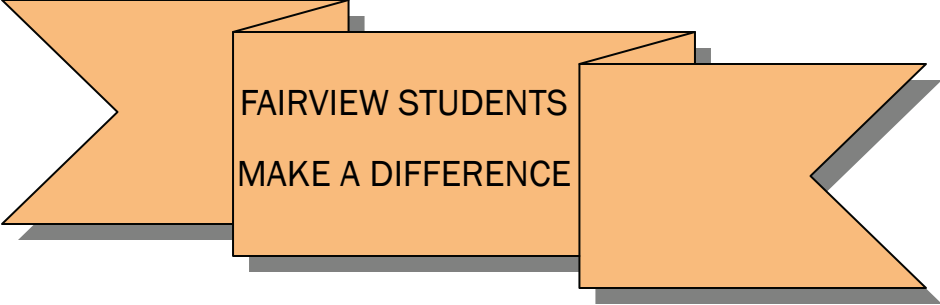

On Monday, October 12, from 7:00-8:30 at the Meadows Branch Library in Boulder, there will be a free panel discussion on "The Magic of Mentoring". Join us and find out how your child can benefit from mentoring relationships.

FAIRVIEW STUDENTS
MAKE A DIFFERENCE

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in appreciation of two Fairview High School students, Hallie Wakely and Keelia Otten. This past summer of 2009, both young women volunteered their time and energy to Imagine!'s Boulder CORE/Labor Source day program for adults with developmental disabilities. Every Thursday, they provided excellent community service with their enthusiasm, open minds and willingness to learn not only how to engage with these adults but how to foster learning as well. I was very impressed with both their ability and comfort in joining this class. They demonstrated poise and adaptability with every aspect of our environment.

In an effort to show our gratitude, we bring their exemplary community service to your attention. It was such a pleasure to experience these two high school students give so generously of their time to their community.

Thank you to all who have supported this spirit of community service!

Many Thanks,

Betsy Janowak, OTR
